LEADERSHIP LUNCHEON GUEST SPEAKER

Walt Grayson

Walt Grayson is a distinguished Mississippi broadcaster and storyteller with a career spanning over five decades. Born and raised in Greenville, Mississippi, he began his broadcasting journey in high school, working part-time at a local radio station. In 1984, Grayson transitioned to television as a weekend weather anchor at WLBT-TV in Jackson. Over his 35-year tenure there, he became well-known for his feature reporting, particularly the “On The Road” segments that showcased stories from across Mississippi. In recent years, Grayson joined WJTV, Jackson’s CBS affiliate, where he serves as a weatherman, news anchor, and feature reporter.

Grayson has been the long-time host and segment producer for Mississippi Public Broadcasting’s “Mississippi Roads,” a program highlighting the state’s culture and history. He also contributes a monthly column to “Today in Mississippi,” sharing narratives that reflect his deep connection to the state.

An accomplished author, Grayson has written several books, including “Looking Around Mississippi” and its sequel, “Looking Around Mississippi Some More!” His contributions to broadcasting have been recognized with his induction into the Associated Press Mississippi Broadcasters Hall of Fame.

Grayson is married to his junior high school sweetheart, “Miz Jo,” and together they have four children and four grandchildren.

Tony Chance

REMEMBERING PAST CHAIRMAN TONY CHANCE

1949-2025

Tony Chance passed away on March 18, 2025. He was born on April 21, 1949, and grew up in Columbia, MS. He graduated from Columbia High School in 1967 where he was a three-sport letterman and was voted Mr. CHS. He went on to attend the University of Southern Mississippi earning degrees in both finance and accounting. During his time there, he played on the USM baseball team coached by the legendary Pete Taylor and is listed in the record book there for playing every inning of every game for all four years.

After graduation, he joined the National Guard and served honorably for six years. On May 31, 1971, he married his high school sweetheart, Margaret Rochinski, and they enjoyed almost 54 years of marriage and three children together.

Tony began his career as a CPA in 1974 at Tann, Brown & Co. in Jackson and then moved to Forest in 1979 and became a sole practitioner under the name of Tony Chance and Company. In 2018, his firm merged and became Chance, Gay & Cieglo, PLLC. He was known to be an honest and dedicated CPA who gave attention to every detail. He considered each and every client to be a personal friend.

Tony was an active member and friend of the MSCPA. He served as President (now Chairman) in 2001-2002. Tony chaired the Insurance Trust Committee for over 20 years with dedicated commitment and served on the committee for many more years. Tony regularly attended the annual meeting in Sandestin where he and his wife typically participated in the tennis tournament.

He was a leader in the community, serving as President of the Chamber of Commerce, Forest Rotary Club where he was a Paul Harris fellow, and the Scott County Chapter of the USM Alumni Association. He also found time to play on championship Scott County softball teams in the 1980s. In 1985, Tony was selected by the U.S. Small Business Administration as the Mississippi Small Business "Accounting Advocate" of the Year, an award that was presented to him by Governor Bill Allain.

Tony will be remembered as a man of integrity and compassion who lived his faith daily and led his family by example. He will be missed.

FINAL BOI UPDATE!

BOI Reporting for U.S. Companies and U.S. Persons No Longer Required

On March 21, 2025, the U.S. Department of the Treasury and the Financial Crimes Enforcement Network (FinCEN) announced that U. S. companies and individuals are no longer required to report their ownership details under the Corporate Transparency Act (CTA). With this interim final rule (IFR), all U. S. based businesses are officially exempt from reporting ownership details to FinCEN.

However, foreign companies that now meet the definition of a “reporting company” and do not qualify for an exemption must still report their ownership by new deadlines. With limited exceptions, the interim final rule still requires most foreign companies to report their ownership details, but it extends the deadline. Foreign entities registered before the IFR publication must file BOI reports within 30 days of that date. Foreign entities registered on or after the IFR’s publication must file within 30 calendar days of receiving notice that their registration is effective.

This final ruling comes after many months of revolving injunctions and deadlines and nationwide advocacy efforts by state societies and the AICPA.

Amendment Clarifies CPAs’ Financial Statement Preparation Engagements

Published: March 26, 2025 in AICPA’s Journal of Accountancy

The AICPA Accounting and Review Services Committee (ARSC) issued an amendment clarifying that a CPA preparing financial statements as part of a consulting services engagement performed in accordance with CS Section 100, Consulting Services: Definitions and Standards, is not required to apply AR-C Section 70, Preparation of Financial Statements.

Statement on Standards for Accounting and Review Services (SSARS), Applicability of AR-C Section 70 to Financial Statements Prepared as Part of a Consulting Services Engagement, will be effective for the preparation of financial statements for periods ending on or after Dec. 15, 2026, with early implementation permitted. It will amend SSARS No. 21, Clarification and Recodification, as amended, AR-C Section 70.

“The practical difference for CPAs is that if they perform the engagement outside of AR-C Section 70, the quality management standards do not apply, and the engagements are not included in the population subject to peer review,” said Mike Glynn, CPA, CGMA, AICPA associate director–Audit & Attest Standards and ARSC staff liaison.

The project arose from questions regarding whether AR-C Section 70 is required to be applied in situations in which controllership or CFO services are performed under the consulting standards and financial statements are created as part of that. Because financial statement preparation is not an attest service, ARSC determined that excluding such engagements would not adversely affect the public interest.

CS Section 100 states that the general professional standards of professional competence, due professional care, planning and supervision, and sufficient relevant data apply to consulting services. Furthermore, in such situations, practitioners are required to follow the AICPA Code of Professional Conduct.

Should Clients Be Nervous About Stock Market Bubbles?

They say the stock market climbs a wall of worry. There are always plenty of people on TV who warn of risks facing the stock market. Your client has expressed these concerns to you. How do you react?

We know “time in the market” has generally performed better than timing the market. Clients might be worried “this time it’s different.”

What points might you raise with them?

1. Are they investing for the long term? The answer is probably yes. If the cash they have invested in stocks represents this year’s college tuition bill for their children, then they are short-term investors. If the bill is payable in August, they have a problem if the stock market is significantly lower then.

2. Are they using borrowed money? If your client is heavily leveraged on margin, they have a serious problem if the stock market goes down. The overall value of the portfolio declines, but their loan stays the same. (It actually grows because of accumulating interest.)

Let us assume neither of these is a problem. Your client is invested for the long term and there is no leverage.

1. What does your firm say? Do you have a research department? If so, this is expertise the client is paying for through their fees. Share what they are thinking.

2. Has the firm revised the model portfolios? Have they recommended reducing stock exposure? Increasing bonds? It is possible, but unlikely.

3. Is your client overweighted in equities? You compare their allocation vs. the recommended model from time to time. Regardless of if there is talk of a bubble or not, you would suggest bringing their portfolio in line with the model aligned to their risk tolerance profile. This would be a reason to lighten up on equities.

4. Are they using managed money? If the answer is yes, someone else is driving the bus. If the money managers think it is time to lighten up, they should be doing it.

5. Are they utilizing dollar cost averaging? This might be how their 401(k) gets funded at work. You might talk with them about putting their tax refund check or annual bonus to work during the year. If this is the case, your client is buying over a continuous period of time.

6. Is your client reinvesting dividends? This is another form of dollar cost averaging. The money is staying in the portfolio. It is buying more shares at different times in the market cycle.

7. Are they invested 100% in stocks? Probably not. They likely have a portfolio that is allocated between stocks, bonds and cash. Maybe just stocks and bonds. In theory, the bonds act as shock absorbers.

8. Do they only own one stock? If they only invested in one stock or one sector, they have the risks that come along with a concentrated position. This is unlikely. As their advisor, you have either recommended a diversified portfolio, a group of mutual funds or several money managers. Their holdings are diversified.

9. Do they own a stock index tracker fund? If they own a fund that tracks the S&P 500 index for example, the index has 11 sectors. If certain sectors might be considered “toppy” others might not.

10. Is all their monetary wealth in stocks? Probably not. They likely have money in certificates of deposit, their checking account, money funds and other vehicles.

11. Do they own other assets besides financial ones? Does your client own real estate? That represents part of their overall wealth. Do they own precious metals? Do they own art, jewelry or anything in the alternative asset category? Their wealth is not exclusively in the stock market.

12. Are they invested internationally? The U.S. stock market is not the only stock market. The U.S. represents about 49% of global stock market capitalization. Markets are cyclical. Different markets around the world might be in different parts of their cycle.

If your client is significantly diversified and has a long-term time horizon, there are fewer reasons for them to be worried when compared to the “do-it-yourself” investor who only owns a couple of stocks and holds concentrated positions.

Evaluating Fraud Risk in a Financial Statement Audit (Virtual Speaker)

Discussion Leader: Curtis Quickel

Cost: Members: $165 Non-Members: $205

Course Hours: 8:30am-12:00pm

Level: Basic CPE Credit: 4 VENDOR: Surgent ACRONYM: ARF4 / ARF4W

Course objectives and description: The Association of Certified Fraud Examiners says that there is fraud lurking in all businesses, including not-for-profit organizations. It often goes undetected for years and when uncovered, management and the board may question why an auditor did not identify it. The auditor's responsibility in a financial statement audit is to assess risk and perform sufficient procedures to obtain reasonable assurance that the financial statements are free from material misstatement due to fraud or error. However, failure to perform an adequate fraud risk assessment and report deficiencies in internal control, such as a lack of segregation of duties, can leave a firm vulnerable. This course will discuss the audit procedures that should be performed in accordance with AU-C §240 as recently amended, best practices in performing fraud risk assessment procedures, when and how to report control deficiencies noted in an audit, and the most frequent types of fraud found in small to mid-sized entities along with internal controls that could be implemented to help prevent and detect them. We will look at various cyber fraud schemes and how they might be prevented or detected, the use of analytics as fraud risk procedures, and assessments of fraud risk in a Single Audit.

Annual FASB Update and Review (Virtual Speaker)

Discussion Leader: Curtis Quickel

Cost: Members: $165 Non-Members: $205

Course Hours: 1:00pm-4:30pm

Level: Intermediate CPE Credit: 4 VENDOR: Surgent ACRONYM: FUR4 / FUR4W

Course objectives and description: This course provides a detailed discussion on the key topics related to financial reporting, though in a summarized format. The course will focus on recent ASUs issued by the FASB with a concentration on issues of greatest significance to most accounting practitioners, including recently released ASUs. Specifically, the course will review recently issued FASB standards on leases and provide an update on ASC 842 and ASC 326 post-implementation items and other hot button accounting issues, such as what is on the FASB's technical agenda. This course is the place to go for a succinct but thorough update on the big topics impacting financial accounting and reporting.

Integrated Planning, Forecasting, and Budgeting for Organizational Success (Virtual Speaker)

Discussion Leader: Curtis Quickel

Cost: Members: $165 Non-Members: $205

Course Hours: 8:30am-12:00pm

Level: Intermediate CPE Credit: 4 VENDOR: Surgent ACRONYM: PLF4 / PLF4W

Course objectives and description: Planning may be one of the most important assignments of the finance professional; however, it is often accomplished in a way that can harm the organization. In many cases, huge sums are spent only to have a planning document developed that does not serve to bring the company together, but rather causes internal division. In some situations the budget can actually harm both productivity and alignment. This course is designed to bring planning, budgeting, and forecasting together into one fully aligned process that is easier, more efficient, and fully engages all parts of the organization. Rather than the plan being owned by the finance department, it is owned and followed by everyone from the CEO to the entry-level employee.

Controller/CFO Update: Hot Topics Facing Today's Financial Professional (Virtual Speaker)

Discussion Leader: Curtis Quickel

Cost: Members: $165 Non-Members: $205

Course Hours: 1:00pm-4:30pm

Level: Update CPE Credit: 4 VENDOR: Surgent ACRONYM: TCF4 / TCF4W

Course objectives and description: In today's rapidly changing world, finance professionals are required to wear many hats and are often the keys to the success of the organization. On one hand, they need to be abreast of the latest proven financial skills for making the best decisions, and on the other hand they need the best skills to motivate, manage, and lead people. Being pigeon-holed into one area or another is neither good for career building nor good for the organization. This reality has proven to be even more true with the advent of COVID-19. We'll cover the latest issues that all CFOs and controllers need to know about and provide how-to guidance to allow for immediate use in their organizations. The program is focused on organizational success and will concentrate on ways to manage risk and achieve greater productivity.

Course Hours: 1:00pm-4:30pm
Level: Update CPE Credit: 4 VENDOR: MSCPA ACRONYM: LWIC / LWICW
Course objectives and description: Strong internal controls help build efficient and effective organizations. Great leaders use internal controls to help guide dynamic organizations. No matter the person, how compelling the vision, or how brilliant the strategy is, without leadership grounded in strong internal controls, there is bound to be a failure in execution. Gaining buy-in, building trust, and inspiring loyalty are skills developed over time...often through the "School of Hard Knocks." A leader sets the "Tone at the Top" through actions, policies, values, influence, and day-to-day activities; a leader must learn how to communicate to stakeholders through authentic messages and powerful conversations. These skills are all grounded in strong internal controls. We will study the speaker's award-winning article, The Anatomy of a Fraud, to see the best practices of internal control every entity, especially smaller ones, can use to deter fraud. We will focus on serious and funny experiences over the speaker's 30+ year career in government financial management to connect the dots between leadership, building effective teams, and COSO & Green Book internal controls. (Will meet Yellow Book CPE requirements.)
